MARK TWAIN'S WEALTH

Worth $350,000 But Dissatisfied—How He's Going to Get Even With The Publishers—His Neighbor, Mrs. Stowe.

From "Johnny Bouquet's Talks" in the New York Tribune.

The most successful author is Mark Twain, but he never can get a nosegay off on him—he has become so food of his money. He said to me at the Fifth Avenue Hotel one day this week: "Johnny, manage your pen well and it will do tolerably well by you. I have made $125,000 by writing books. By lecturing and writing plays as well as by books I have made $250,000.

A deep gloom spread over his face, and he took a free smell of my posies and said, in his deep subterranean, drawing voice from that sardonic Hebraic face:

"Johnny, it might just as well have been $400,000! Just as well!" That sigh he heaved might have come from Barabbas when Pilate let him go, and he repeated, "Just as well, Johnny Bouquet."

I pinned upon his coat a Marchal Neil rose.

"Allow me to decorate the one prosperous author I have found—who succeeded where Tasso and Camoens and Cervantes failed, owing to the superior taste of his time and countrymen!"

"O ho! ho!" exclaimed Mr. Clemens, inwardly looking up and down and around at nothing, deeply amused. "Have I got 'em?"

"Not the jame, I hope"—for it was at the bar.

"No, no, no!" he rumbled in his rather leech depths. "I've got the publishers where the hair's short. I'm going to have all my money—all, all! The whole $400,000! I have paid $150,000 to know how. Draw near, industrious slave, and learn the precious lesson, and lay it to thy heart! I mean to be my own publisher hereafter. Instead of letting them pay me commissions for selling my books, I shall pay them a slight commission for doing it, and take the lion's share. That is the idea that will revolutionize American letters, and make a poor author preposterous!"

Never did I see a countenance so transfigured. A golden gleam was in his black Shemite eyes, as if the miser and the Bohemian had met each other there and the Bohemian had got the worst of it and given up his pocket book. Yet what a sideling, drawing power and intensity the man had—his stomatic and nasal tones seeming less profound than his intensity. Here is a man, I thought, with a reputation for lightness but a character for strength, who has discovered himself late in life, like Ethan Brand when he mastered the secret of the unforgotten sin, saying: "It is here, here!"

"Yes, pedler of petals, prodigal of stamens, thou happy, careless, unacquisitive child! I have completed a novel, a serious tale, and I am having the plates made myself. I do all my writing in the summer, up in our country place in the hills of New York. The last of the year I shall give to business. Tell all your friends to publish for themselves. Make friends of the mammon of unrighteousness, and go, go! Ha, ha!"

He said that Mrs. Stowe, his neighbor at Hartford, wrote no more, being now sixty-nine years old, and her husband, still living, being seventy-nine; but the profits of her great novel gave them a good home and substance for old age. At forty she wrote the wonder book, a negro for his muse, which sold 400,000 copies, and half a million in England, and was read like the Arabian Nights in the language and at the camps of the desert. At that time Mark Twain, whose father was a Virginian and his mother from Kentucky, and he born on the slave soil of Missouri, may have looked upon Mrs. Stowe as a wild, wilful fiend, and now they are as snug and squat together as the woman in Paradise and the jumping frog.

Luminous Newspapers for Midnight Perusal.

From the Parisian.

A new invention is reported from Turin. It consists in the application of light-giving materials to printing ink, by which print becomes luminous in the dark, so that in the future it will be possible to read at night, in bed or during a journey, without the assistance of candle or lamp. A new daily paper, in which this luminous material will be used, is said, about to be published in Turin.

A TEXAS TRAGEDY.

Mr. Jack Kelly's Little Unpleasantness with Parson Smith.

From the Uvalde Hesperian.

Jack Kelly, who resides in the vicinity of the Sarbinal Canyon, near Waresville, came into Uvalde and surrendered to Sheriff Patterson, saying that he had killed, in self-defense, the Rev. J. A. J. Smith on Wednesday, the 19th ult. Mr. Kelly made the following statement in regard to the tragedy: Some one must have been speaking to Smith in regard to his having grazed sheep on Smith's land, and he knows no other cause would have led to the affair. When Kelly first saw Smith the latter was in his buggy, following Kelly's sheep. This was about 3:30 P. M., and Smith had been with them about two hours. Kelly then went back to see if the sheep were going in the direction of his home, and Smith was then still with them. As Kelly was walking around the sheep, Smith called to him to "hold on." They were then about 100 yards apart. Kelly then sat down by a small pecan tree and waited for Smith, who drove up opposite within about ten feet of Kelly, stopped his horses, placed the reins over the dashboard, saying, "Good evening, Mr. Kelly," and picking up his Winchester, which was at his side on the buggy seat, at the same time. Kelly arose and replied, "Good morning, Parson Smith," raising his Winchester, which had been lying across his lap. Smith then fired and Kelly answered the fire, there being a very brief interval between the shots of both parties.

Smith fired one shot from his Winchester and jumped out of the buggy on the opposite side from Kelly, and fired another shot across the buggy, which Kelly dodged by dropping on his knees. Kelly fired two shots from his Winchester, which got out of order at the second shot, and he drew his six-shooter. Smith then fired between the spokes of the hind wheels of the buggy at Kelly, who fired twice through the spokes of the same wheels at Smith. Both then stepped back to the rear of the buggy and met at point-blank range, when Kelly fired a shot which took effect in Smith's breast or stomach, and, as Smith stepped back several paces, Kelly fired his last shot as Smith fell, the ball taking effect in Smith's head.

Both parties to the untoward affair enjoyed the respect and esteem of the community, and have means. Had not the practice of carrying weapons been in vogue in this section this difficulty would have been averted, the bullet would not have cut the throat of a minister's life, and a kind-hearted man, who never before had a difficulty in his life, would not have had to take that life.

AN OUTCROP OF SNOBBERY.

In a fashionable New York boarding house objection was made to the presence of a young lady at the table, because she worked as a school teacher for a living. Such snobbery seems almost incredible, and it is no wonder that the wounded lady complains of it in a letter to the Tribune. Happily very little remains of the old prejudice against women who work for a living. In this country it now held exclusively by snobs. As applied to lady teachers it is particularly ridiculous. Intelligent people recognize that teaching is one of the most noble of professions. It was sufficient for Agassiz, the great naturalist who honored this hemisphere by his residence, when he came to die to describe himself in his will as a "teacher." Agassiz recognized that there was no higher calling, and there was no greater man in America than he.

Whether a woman teaches for a living or finds employment in some other honest occupation, she is entitled to respect. No lady need fear that she will be degraded in the eyes of sensible people by any kind of honest labor. Ladies complain in the Tribune that they lose "caste" by going to work; and that their chances of securing eligible husbands are thereby diminished. This is a mistake. A lady is as much a lady when honorably supporting herself, as when dependent on others. It is true, however, that some kinds of occupation in which girls and women are found engaged have a tendency to give them masculine manners; to rob them of that modesty and delicacy which is essential to a lady. But they can easily guard against such a deterioration. The spirit and refinement of the true lady is fully as much to be found among school teachers as among the ladies who lead merely ornamental lives—sadly good for nothing very many of them, it must be confessed.

THE ANNIVERSARY OF THE FIRE.

To-morrow will be the 2nd of March, the second anniversary of that fearful fire which reduced the greater portion of the town of Reno to ashes, and left so many of its people ruined, destitute and homeless. We may all well be proud of the energy, and the courage, and the perseverance, which were shown in retrieving that disaster. On the ashes of the former town a better town has arisen, and although many still suffer from the loss of property sustained in that calamity, yet the people of Reno are to-day collectively in better circumstances than they were two years ago. The fire in many respects was a benefit to the place. The prompt rebuilding of the burned buildings, and the general and immediate resumption of business, gave outsiders a faith in the future of Reno, which has done much to aid its growth and advancement. The fire, and the plucky renewal of business which followed it, extensively advertised the place, and called attention to the permanent advantages of the town site. Thus the fire was not an unmixed calamity. Yet we hope never to see such another.

VICTORIOUS BOERS.

Those Dutchmen at the Cape are terrible Boers to the British troops. The British were badly beaten in a battle last Sunday, which, of course, served them right for fighting on the Sabbath. General Colley, with 22 officers and 627 men (officers don't count as men) took up position on top of Majola Mountain last Saturday night. The Boers drove the British down on the following day. It is stated that General Colley was killed and a large number of his men. Most of the British force retreated, but two companies of Highlanders remained on the mountain top after their ammunition was exhausted, throwing stones down upon the advancing Boers, finally receiving the intrepid Dutchmen at the point of the bayonet. Brave Highlanders! But they fought in a bad cause. The Boers were left masters of the field, that is, the mountain top.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

In the course of a lecture delivered in New York last week on "Courtship," the Rev. C. C. Goss said: "The courting really begins when the lovers begin to study each other's dispositions. Courtship should be honest and sincere, not formal. It should not be too long. Dr. John Brown courted seven years without kissing the object of his affections. After this period had elapsed he asked her if he might kiss her. She acquiesced; but instead of indulging in the luxury he said, 'Let us pray.' A kiss under such circumstances is no kiss at all. My experience is that a stolen kiss is the best. I believe that praying should be more practiced in connection with courtship all along the line, but this was not a time for praying. He might have taken the kiss and prayed afterward. John Brown's courtship was too cruel and formal." The Rev. Mr. Goss evidently knew what he was talking about.

The total abstinence movement in Nebraska has resulted in legislation hostile to saloon-keepers. They are now required to pay a license of $1,000, a year in cities of over 10,000 inhabitants, and in smaller places $500 a year. They must also give a bond of $5,000, and are responsible for civil damages. Druggists do not have to take out a license. An Anti-treating Bill has also passed, making it a misdemeanor for one man to treat another. All through the Legislature a strong fight was made by the temperance agitators to pass a bill submitting the prohibitory constitutional amendment to a vote of the people; but this bill, requiring a three-fifths vote of the Legislature, was defeated, but by only two votes.

The curious system of mine management which prevails in San Francisco was fully illustrated at the last annual meeting of the California Mining Co. Only four stockholders attended, and they were Directors. The four held only seventeen shares of stock, worth less than $20 at market rates. Yet the California mine is one of the most important on the Comstock, having paid over thirty million dollars in dividends. There are 540,000 shares of capital stock. Of course the Directors are mere figure-heads. The mine is really controlled by the Bonanza firm.

The Virginia Footlight makes these bold predictions; "That Sierra Nevada's next assessment will be a heavy one. That Sierra Nevada will sell for over $300 a share before January 1st, 1882. That a big boom will take place in a mine between Jacket and Utah, which is now selling for a mere nominal figure. And finally that the old Comstock will come out brighter than ever, before many days." Well, anybody can predict such things, but will they come true? There's the rub.

"Johnny Bouquet," in the New York Tribune, gives this explanation of Charles Nordhoff's success in life: "When he was a poor fellow, working in a Western newspaper office, I think, the Methodists were kind to him, and he became a Methodist, and that church has its way of throwing its arms around a fellow and whooping him along, and religion and prosperity have a great deal to do with each other."

The Nevada Assembly has adopted a resolution introduced by Havenor, for the appointment of a committee to draft an amendment to the Constitution, granting the right of suffrage to women. Should further affirmative action be taken by the Legislature, in a way to bring the question before the people for decision, we shall have a thorough ventilation of this subject by-and-by.

Abram and Mesias Baca, murderers of editor Conkling, in New Mexico, have been arrested in Ysleta, Texas. It was thought they would be lynched before arriving at Tocarro, where the murder was committed. There seems to be in New Mexico a praiseworthy disposition to propitiate the ghosts of slain editors. Editor-killers should be promptly lynched. They should never be trusted to the uncertainties of a judicial trial.

This item, from an esteemed though unknown contemporary, should be cheering to holders of Comstock shares: "Authentic records make it appear that in Spain during more than two thousand consecutive years, and in Saxony and Hanover for over nine nine hundred years, fissures have been largely worked, and they remain today as good as they ever were."

Mr. Mrs. Langtry has another claim to distinction, besides being the husband of the reigning English beauty. He is the only possessor of a secret method of keeping trousers from bagging at the knees. He jealously guards the precious secret, and great as is his pride in his wife's appearance, he will not even communicate it to her.

Carlyle had a poor opinion of novels. Once he said: "I tried to read your George Eliot's 'Adam Bede,' and now I'm reading the second volume of her last book," rapping the volume he had before him, "and find it neither instructive nor amusing, but dull—simply dull." Then turning the leaves, he muttered: "Poor Lewes, poor Lewes!"

The silk manufacturing industry of the United States is of considerable importance. From a census bulletin just to hand, it appears that 34,440 persons were engaged in it last year, and that the net value of manufactured products was $34,410,463. The principal factories are in New Jersey and New York.

Queen Margherita, of Italy, is 29, has bright hair, blue eyes, a creamy complexion, and is fond of dancing. She invites her own dancers, through the medium of a chamberlain, and she always chooses the best. Many American ladies would like to enjoy the same privilege.

Writing from El Paso, Texas, a correspondent of the San Francisco Bulletin says that the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe road will not reach that place for four or five months yet. The Southern Pacific was on Feb. 19 only fourteen miles from El Paso.

The statistics show that there are a million more males than females in this country. So that, from a statistical point of view, there is no need of any woman remaining single unless she wants to.

A barn belonging to Chris. Maiers, near Walls Wells, W. T., was burned lately, the fire starting from a pipe being lighted in the barn by one of the hired men. Loss, $4,000. Never allow a hired man in the barn.

A District Judge at Chicago has refused to naturalize a Chinaman, on the ground that naturalization can only be granted to white persons, and that the Chinaman is not white.

If chloride of lime be spread on the soil, no insects will be found near there.—Agricultural Exchange.

The Catholic Orphan Asylum at Scranton, Pennsylvania, was burned on Sunday night. Seventeen children perished in the flames.

The Enterprise says it is reported that John Snow is to be Deputy Warden of the State Prison.

The testimony for the prosecution in the Kalloch murder case was concluded yesterday.

The road has never paid, it is said, and there are doubts if it will be opened again for a long time.

He Said "Belly."

RENO, Feb. 28, 1881.

Editor Gazette:—In his address to the Reform Club last Saturday evening, Mr. Cain used a low word which I am almost ashamed to write. He said "belly," and said it in a connection which I should blush to mention. I would have left the hall instantly if I could have gotten out without attracting attention and disturbing the occupants of the same seat, who, I am sorry to say, did not appear to mind the word the least bit though dressed in the garb of ladies. I was hoping that some other person, you yourself, perhaps, would censure Mr. Cain for such language from the platform, but as no one has done so I feel it my duty to society to express my opinion of such a dreadfully coarse expression. I think it just shameful. Don't you think that the Trustees, don't you call them, should put a stop to such talk in future in the Reform Club?

A CHRISTIAN MOTHER.

[The modesty of our fair correspondent has evidently sustained a severe shock. Yet we venture to think that her blushes had better be spared for a better occasion. It is true that "belly" is not an elegant word, but it is not necessarily low or vulgar. The application of the term must be considered in this case, and not the word itself. Addison, and other of the most classical English writers, make frequent use of the word. The frequency of its occurrence in the Scriptures is known to everybody. In making use of the term "belly," Mr. Cain evidently meant nothing more than the pleasures of the table. The word has been used in that sense from time immemorial. But "Christian Mother" evidently thinks he meant something more. We fear she betrays indecency by the false construction she has put on the lecturer's remark. Here is an illustration of our idea: A lady one day remarked to a famous artist that a certain picture of his they were gazing at seemed to her very indecent. "No, madame," replied the painter, "there is no indecency in the picture. The indecency is in you."—ED. GAZETTE.]

RELIGION IN LOYALTON.

A Revival Which Caught No Sinners—More Discussion of the Doctrine of Hell and Damnation—Sierra Valley Apparently a Hot-Bed of Heresy.

LOYALTON, Cal., Feb. 26.

Editor Gazette:—All our ranchers are busy plowing; many are breaking virgin, or sage-brush soil, and the people all seem much encouraged, and have bright prospects for the coming season. A large area of grain will be sown this year, as there seem to be no fears of the pesky grasshopper. We are having a little pneumonia and a mild form of typhus fever just now at Sierraville, but the sanitary condition of the rest of the valley is good. Some grain has been sown in the valley already. The weather, is warm and beautiful.

Spring fights have been very numerous here at Loyalton, sometimes 4 or 5 in a day. One amateur pugilist whipped his nearest neighbor, and declared at the end of the combat that he had left the Methodist church five years ago expressly to "lick" him. Fights being so lively in this community, and we having a new Methodist parson here, and after the remark of the gentleman who had left his church so long ago for such a purpose, it was thought a good and prudent time to start a revival meeting, to catch or bring back to the church this one sinner, at least, as he is a man of many "spondulies," or dimes, and would be a financial blessing (at least) to the church at Loyalton, which is very few in numbers and not over-strong in funds and faith.

The revival lasted two weeks, with two meetings each day, but "nary" sinner did they catch. The parson expressed himself as satisfied with the result, as he had done his duty in warning the sinners of the errors of their ways, and if we all scorch in Calvin's hell, he says he has done his duty. The event of greatest importance accomplished by that revival meeting, was the turning of the Loyalton Literary Society out of the church, and it is the only place the Society can meet in for the present. Grand and noble was the result of two weeks of Methodist revival in Loyalton. The leader or president of the Society is a mild philanthropic skeptic, or infidel, and of course that was the reason why there were not any converts, although no infidelity or skepticism was allowed in the society, and nothing taught there but purity of morals and intelligence. But it made no difference; the society had to move. The result was that the church and sabbath school have deprived themselves of the use of a very good organ belonging principally to the society. I am, however, sorry to inform your intelligent readers that among this noble little band of 7 Methodists there are some that wanted no organ in the house, as the organ was purchased with money raised by a dance, which is like a case I knew of where I was raised in which a man (after a Methodist revival) took the pillow slips off the pillows, and held the embroidered edge his wife had put on, in the fire and burned it off, saying at the same time, that he was not going to have his soul sent to hell by having embroidery on the pillow slips. The president of the Loyalton Literary Society has the wrong shaped head on him to be a Methodist, and as one of Nevada's most useful and sincere ministers of the gospel said to me once, he cared very little, or it made little difference what a person believed, if he were only honest, but honesty won't do with Loyalton Methodists, in their belief.

The days of superstition and dogmatic fanaticism are nearly past, but a little of it still lurks in the places farthest from the centers of civilization. The old, or rather the new meaning, placed on the word "hell" by John Calvin, has frightened about all it ever will frighten into the church. Talmage says the average death rate in the various churches in this country for 25 years has been 4 to every 1 conversion. The people are getting too intelligent, and the public press is exposing too much of the sins and frauds practiced in the church, for them to make converts. Only a few years ago the press dare not expose the chicanery practiced by the churches, and their own journals do not do it yet. Churches all through the New England States are being vacated for want of congregations, and only those who preach liberalism are patronized to any extent. God hasten the day when all our churches will be turned into places where intelligence is taught, instead of dogmatism perpetuating the relics of a race of ancient heathens, who lived in an age when our race were far more ignorant of science, and in fact all knowledge, than are the Piute and Washoe tribes of Indians of to-day: and who would think of learning theology, or anything else of them, yet they are not more superstitious than some church-members of to-day. The translators and compilers of our own Bible have tried to keep that book within a century or so of the advancement of the world of intellect, but most church-members look at it as they see it, and call it good, and a book of wonderful wisdom and morals, and imagine, and even believe, it came from God. All sabbath school libraries and so-called christian literature, is shaped to the one object; viz. Believe in the divinity of Christ, or that there is one, or be damned and scorched in a lake of fire and brimstone through all future time. The church claims that our civilization, improvement in all the arts, sciences and intelligence are the result of religion, which is false in every sense of the word, and is only equalled in "gall and cheek" by that of a starved mule when he sees feed passing to try to grasp it, in the same manner that the church tries to grasp passing civilization. Go back to Palestine, where the Christian religion originated, and there you will find what it has always done for civilization and improvement. Go back to Europe in that period of history called the dark ages, and see if the church did not have control of the affairs of State (principally) at that time. Is God in our constitution? and was it not chiefly, if not wholly drawn up by infidels, and is not that fact alone the cause of our progress—superior intelligence, happiness and freedom. I am well aware that very many of the members of churches are so educated, and sincerely believe, and are as honest as myself and others that do not think and believe as they do, because biased historians have so shaped our histories; and dishonesty, when it would be (as they thought) beneficial to the interests of the church, could be winked at (or hushed through fear) by those that knew better, and believed by the masses, or those that did not know the difference. Take, for example, the manner in which Thos. Paine is said by the church to have died, with regard to his belief and confession, which was a fabrication on the part of the church, and believed by nearly all church members; but this fabrication, like Calvin's hell, been used to frighten the unlettered into the folds of the church, as long as it will win. In this valley the mothers frighten their babies into submission by crying "coyote," or by saying they will give them to the coyote, and when I was a boy my mother said "wolf," as wolves were the most familiar animals we knew of; but as soon as the children get grown up, and their ears and eyes open, as it were, it is no use to cry "wolf" or "coyote." And so it is with the hell-fire and brimstone doctrine of the church to-day. This letter is already too long. M. D.

Canning Trout.

Judge Griswold, of Wadsworth, has been experimenting for a couple of years upon fish canning. He has erected a steaming establishment, and put up a large number of Truckee trout. After a number of failures, he thinks he now has the true principle, and can preserve the trout for any length of time, retaining all the delicacy of the fish, if not improving the flavor. He is not certain that he can make it profitable, but he thinks he can save fish that are caught in excess of the demand.

Death From the Effects of Having a Tooth Pulled.

Says the Bodie Free Press: "About four or five days ago Chris. Heitman had a back tooth extracted by a dentist, and by not taking proper care of himself he caught cold in his jaw and inflammation set in, which, in a short time settled in his throat. From there the disease went to the unfortunate man's lungs, and pleuro-pneumonia was the result. He lingered in pain until Saturday, when he died in the county hospital, whither he had been taken."

Storms was a pioneer, having come to California in '49. He was well known all over the Pacific coast as a sporting man, having lived in Pioche, Virginia City, Deadwood, Leadville, and in fact, all the mining camps. He was about 60 years of age, and leaves a wife in San Francisco. Short is a sporting man, who has been in Tombstone for some months. The excitement on the streets was great.

The Coming Comedy Company.

Of the Sullivan Comedy Company the Cheyenne Leader has the following: "Sullivan's Mirror of Ireland and Comedy Company make their bow at Power's Opera House Friday and Saturday evenings next and Saturday matinee. The company is one of the best that has ever appeared in the city. They are not a common band of strolling players, but are artists of merit. Dan Morris Sullivan is a host in himself; he keeps the audience in a roar of laughter whenever he appears on the stage. Miss Josie Morris Sullivan is one of the brightest and most sparkling ladies. She is a second Lotta, and our music loving people should not fail to see her. Let there be a full house, and see the grand pictures of Ireland, besides one of the best entertainments that has ever been given in the city."

MORALS IN MAINE.

Startling Statistics Showing a Strange Increase in Crime Since the Adoption of the Prohibitory Liquor Law.

From the Portland Press.

Col. Porter, Chairman of the Board of Inspectors, has sent me the new State Prison report. A comparison with the report of 1881 discloses an increase of felony, and especially of murder and other high crimes, which ought to startle our community. Look at the official figures:

	1881	1880	PER CENT OF INCREASE
Murders.....	4	21	425
Man-slayings.....	1	5	400
Murderous Assaults.....	3	7	133
Arson etc.....	1	9	1000
Attempts to rape.....	1	6	500
Felonious assault.....	0	4	...
Robbery.....	0	4	...
Piracy.....	0	3	...
Total of high crimes.....	14	47	379
Other felons.....	73	200	...
Total State Prisoners.....	87	207	...

If two murderers had not been pardoned last year our assassins' row would have reached 23.

In 1881 our population was 587,680; in 1880 it is 648,945. Increase in 29 years, 61,265, or 14 per cent.

In 1851 divorce was exceedingly rare in Maine. Now, as ex-Gov. Dingley has proved to a committee of this Legislature, Maine leads all New England. He shows that 478 divorces were granted in 1878, being one man and one woman out of every 670, and he thinks that 1880 was probably still worse.

Insanity has also steadily and rapidly increased at a rate far exceeding the gain in population. The same may be said of suicide.

The large percentage of youthful convicts is painfully suggestive. Nearly 18 per cent. were convicted during their minority and more than 64 per cent. under the age of 30.

The average age of commitment is only 25. Great injustice has been done to our foreign-born population, and particularly to the Irish, by the loose talk of many of our writers and speakers.

Out of the 199 felons confined in the State Prison proper, only 39 are of foreign birth, only 18 are natives of Europe, and only 4 are Irish; 133 were born in Maine.

In 1820 our population was about 300,000, and in 1848 about 500,000. During those first 20 years of the history of Maine, only two convictions of murder or arson are known to have occurred. This is at the rate of one case to 4,000,000 inhabitants annually.

In the single year 1880, the Attorney-General's report shows 13 convictions, 5 of which were of murder, being at the rate of one conviction to every 93,000 persons.

This reveals the appalling increase within forty years, of forty-three fold in what until 1876 was called capital crime.

Out of the 199 felons confined in the State Prison proper, only 39 are of foreign birth, only 18 are natives of Europe, and only 4 are Irish; 133 were born in Maine.

In 1820 our population was about 300,000, and in 1848 about 500,000. During those first 20 years of the history of Maine, only two convictions of murder or arson are known to have occurred. This is at the rate of one case to 4,000,000 inhabitants annually.

In the single year 1880, the Attorney-General's report shows 13 convictions, 5 of which were of murder, being at the rate of one conviction to every 93,000 persons.

This reveals the appalling increase within forty years, of forty-three fold in what until 1876 was called capital crime.
